

BEST OUT OF WASTE

FASHION SHOW COMPETITION

21st NOVEMBER, 2025

On the 21st of November 2025, the Senior KG section of the Little Angels Kindergarten proudly organised a vibrant and inspiring Best Out of Waste Fashion Show Competition. The event brought together creativity, confidence, and environmental awareness in a delightful showcase presented by our young students.

Two esteemed judges were invited to evaluate the competition. The children walked the stage with remarkable enthusiasm, dressed in innovative costumes made entirely from recycled materials such as coconut husks, bottle caps, plastic bags, paper plates, newspapers, cardboard, and discarded boxes. Their imaginative outfits transformed them into paper and plastic dress models, dustbin, warriors, solar car, ATM machine, and many other creative characters that captivated all present there.

The young boy models strode down the ramp with impressive confidence, proudly showcasing their unique and thoughtfully crafted outfits. The purpose of organising this competition extended far beyond the fun of dressing up. It aimed to instill in children an early understanding of sustainability, recycling, and mindful consumption.

By creating fashionable attire out of everyday waste, students learned that even discarded materials can hold new life and value when viewed with creativity.

Such initiatives play a crucial role in shaping young minds, helping them develop environmental sensitivity and responsibility from an early age. The event encouraged children to think innovatively, strengthened their confidence, and fostered teamwork and problem-solving skills.

Moreover, the competition created awareness about reducing waste and protecting our environment an important message that students can carry forward into their homes, classrooms, and community.

Overall, the Best Out of Waste Fashion Show was not only a celebration of talent and imagination but also a meaningful step towards nurturing environmentally conscious future citizens.
